

COOLIDGE NIGHT SWAYS GOTHAM

City Witnesses Greatest Political Demonstration in Its Streets
Since McKinley Celebration

THOUSANDS PARADE

Nominee, at Union League Club, Declares America Will Work for Upbuilding of Civilization

New York, Oct. 28.—New York packed back to the traditions of the century tonight, when its historic thoroughfares, Broadway and Fifth avenue, resounded to the tread of thousands marching behind Calvin Coolidge, Republican candidate for president.

Not since 1895, when thousands of marchers fell into line under the colors of McKinley, has the city witnessed so great a political demonstration in its streets.

Leading the column, Governor Coolidge rode in an automobile from Worth Street and Lower Broadway to the Union League club on Fifth avenue, where he dismounted and watched the passing procession from a reviewing stand erected over the sidewalk.

Great Crowds Turned Away.

Leaving this point of vantage long before the parade was over, the candidate went to Carnegie hall, where, before an audience which packed it to capacity, he took issue with those who condemned Senator Harding for rejecting parts, and retaining parts of the League of Nations covenant.

Tonight's address was Governor Coolidge's first public appearance in New York since his nomination and great crowds turned away from the doors of the hall where he spoke.

With the paraders.

Speaking after Nathan L. Miller and Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., respectively candidates for governor of New York and United States senator, Governor Coolidge promised, that under a Republican administration the United States "will continue to contribute its full power to the upbuilding of civilization." Although he admitted that "what form the new association of nations will take, no man can tell."

Although the exact nature of the association in which America would join is as yet unknown, the Republican candidate for vice president said that certain points are "now fixed."

"America," he said, "will not tolerate any supergovernment. The nation will never humiliate itself by leaving the determination of its duties to any other jurisdiction. These are provisions in the covenant submitted by the President to the senate to which we shall never agree. It will make no agreement that it is not prepared to execute."

"There will be no shameful surrender of our independence of action. There will be no hesitation to meet every obligation—first to our countrymen, then to the rest of the world. But we shall continue to maintain that patriotism is respectable."

The Republican national platform, Governor Coolidge said, contains nothing which will prevent "taking the good in the treaty and in the covenant and excising or amending those things that are not consonant with American traditions and habits."

Deplores Post War Conditions.

The governor criticized the failure of the administration to take advantage of post war conditions to capitalize on our merchant marine and to declared one of the first undertakings of a Republican executive would be to salvage what they can out of the colossal loss that has been suffered through inefficiency of the Democratic Shipping board.

To illustrate a point connected with his discussion of President Wilson's foreign policy, Governor Coolidge told a story of the Greek philosopher Thales, "who, when wandering in a field, looking at the stars, fell into a pit. A peasant woman passing by was asked to pull him out, and, womanlike, she asked him how he had fallen there. He said he was examining the stars. With a woman's wit, she replied: 'Foolish man, how canst thou expect to know the stars if thou dost not know what lies at thy feet.'"

"Many centuries passed and another philosopher watching the fall of an apple tried to understand the thing that had happened at his feet and discovered the law which governed the stars."

"The world has needed an Isaac Newton and it has had a Thales."

The Coolidge parade, which included both men and women, began shortly after 5 o'clock. Forming in Broadway with the head of the column in the heart of the wholesale merchant section, and its tail at the Battery, the procession, illuminated by the thousands of electric lights carried by the marchers, moved up the famous street, increasing in size as it proceeded on its way.

At the head of the procession, immediately behind a cordon of mounted police, the words "America First" and "Harding and Coolidge," were blazoned on a huge electric sign forming an arch from curb to curb. This sign, brilliant in red and white lights and borne upon an automobile truck loaded with the national colors, pre-

HARDING DENIES ANY CLIQUE OR COMBINATION RULES HIM

Aaron, O., Oct. 28.—Replying to charges of a "senate oligarchy," Senator Harding declared in a speech here tonight that he was not the candidate of any clique or combination, but was absolutely "unpledged" and "unbossed."

DEPICTS WILSON AS HE REALLY IS

Secretary Tumulty Relates Hitherto to Unpublished Incidents in President's Life

A MAN WITH A SOUL

Brooded Over Eventualities Which of Necessity Forced Him to Send Young Men to War

Washington, Oct. 28.—An intimate picture of "the manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is" based on 10 years as his private secretary and touched here and there with hitherto unpublished incidents in the President's official life was drawn tonight by Joseph P. Tumulty, speaking at a Democratic mass meeting over the line in Maryland. Mr. Tumulty described the President as "a man strangely misunderstood and as violently misrepresented by others as any man in the whole history of American politics." He had long desired, he said, to tell the country what he knew of Mr. Wilson's character, but had refrained in the knowledge that the President "who shrinks from self exploitation would resent exploitation by his friends."

Deplored Death in Battle.

With the approach of Mr. Wilson's retirement to private life, Secretary Tumulty continued, "it seems to be not improper that just before the curtain rises on the last act, I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings and tell the audience a few things about the leading actor in this great drama of the past eight years."

Recalling his 10 years in the intimate relationship of a private secretary, the speaker said:

"I may be presumed to know at least as much about him as the gentlemen who discourse volubly of him in Pullman smokers, on the golf links, and in the clubs, who assure you that all they say is facts, for they had it on the word of a friend who passed through Washington once and heard a man say what another man said, and so forth."

Among the incidents upon which he drew to relate his subject, Mr. Tumulty recalled the reaction of the President to the applause which followed delivery of his warm efforts to congress on April 6, 1917.

"On that fateful day," Secretary Tumulty said, "I rode with him back from the capitol to the White House, the echo of the applause still ringing in my ears. For a while he sat silent and pale in the cabinet room. At last he said:

"Think what they were applauding. It means death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that."

Mourning Vera Cruz Incident.

"That simple remark," Secretary Tumulty continued, "is one key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson, who," he said, "hated and dreaded war with all the fibers of his human soul."

As further evidence of the President's sense of responsibility in the bloodshed by American soldiers, Mr. Tumulty told of the day when news came of American casualties at Vera Cruz in 1914.

"When the news came," he said, "the President was quiet all day. He went about his business methodically, with his usual clear judgment and prompt decisions, but that night he sat silent for a long time. At last he said: 'I cannot get it off my heart. It had to be done, it was right. Nothing else was possible, but I cannot forget that it was I who had to order those young men to their death.'"

Earlier that year, when word came "that a German vessel laden with munitions, was on its way to Mexico," President Wilson talked over the telephone wire with Secretaries Bryan and Daniels and Mr. Tumulty said he was also on the telephone during the conversation.

Defied Anarchists' Violence.

"When the situation had been stated to the President," he said, "the voice came back clear and firm. 'Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once.'"

"Just before I cut off the connection," Secretary Tumulty continued, "I said a word to the President about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded no longer clear, but muffled as when one chokes back a sob. 'What do you think of it Tumulty? It means death. It breaks my heart, but it must be done.'"

Secretary Tumulty recalled also Mr. Wilson's determination to ride in the funeral procession of the marines and sailors killed at Vera Cruz when the bodies were brought to New York. Dismissing rumors that an attack was planned on his life had reached secret service men, Mr. Tumulty said, and one undertook to argue with him, saying, "You will show all proper respect by appearing in the reviewing stand. The country cannot afford to lose its president."

"His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for president.' This was his brief and final answer. He rode in the procession."

Stern to the Utmost.

The sternness of Woodrow Wilson, his secretary declared, was just the reverse side of his humane nature, and made "nothing more natural" than that he should have become the champion of small nations. The President's insistence upon Article X of

THINK COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT NEAR

Wage Agreement Until End of Year
Will Be Accepted Next Week,
It Is Thought

London, Oct. 28.—(By The Associated Press.)—The prospects tonight are that the coal strike will terminate by the end of next week through the miners' acceptance of the agreement arranged with the government under which the miners will get two shillings advance unconditionally until the end of the year and in the future their wages will be settled by the creation of a national wage board.

In the event of any delay in starting the wages board, wages will in the interval be settled on the basis of increase or decrease according to surplus profits or otherwise from coal exports. This depends upon such complex calculations as to render it hardly possible for any miner to understand; therefore in the ballot to be taken next Tuesday and made returnable Wednesday the miners must necessarily be guided by the recommendations of their leaders. The leaders favor a settlement on these terms.

The league covenant was explained as a wish to forestall the necessity of the United States going to war by making it a participant "in a plan to prevent the beginning of such a war."

"He wished to stop the next war before it should begin," Mr. Tumulty said.

In contrast to Mr. Wilson's self proclaimed "passion for peace," Secretary Tumulty declared that "when the challenge came from Germany to America when the American mind was ready for war" "this same Woodrow Wilson became the most uncompromising advocate of the most stringent manner for conducting the war, thereby to hasten the end of the war."

The speaker recalled the President's speech to officers of the Atlantic fleet in 1917, published long after, in which he said, "I am willing to sacrifice half of the navy Great Britain and we together have to crush the submarine nest."

"Mined" the North Sea.

"It was he," Secretary Tumulty continued, "who insisted on mining the North sea to cut off the German horres. Experts said it could not be done. The civilian Wilson said it could be done, must be done, and it was. It was the civilian Wilson who broached the plan for combining the allied powers in the west under the supreme command of General Foch in order that all the allied forces could be concentrated on the German forces to crush them."

"In his mind the supreme object of this war was to end the war. The 'grave fault' which Secretary Tumulty asserted he found with the President was his ignorance of "how to play to the gallery."

"He does not know how to capitalize his virtues for the front pages of the newspapers," he said. "He is dreadfully poor publicity material. Human from his heart to his finger tips, he does not know how to put his humanity on exhibition."

"As his friend and admirer I have loved him better because he didn't. There was something too fine in his nature for the dramatics of posturing of the political 'game as it is usually played.'"

Forever Bars Article X.

"I said in the beginning that we were opposed to an armed military alliance with the old world and I say it now, I have said frequently and I say now that we are never going to have anything to do with a League with Article X in it."

"I have said repeatedly that America does not intend to accept that League. It is true that as a member of the United States senate I voted to ratify the peace treaty and League covenant with reservations, but when I voted there was attached to the covenant reservations to safeguard the independence of the United States."

"I have said from July 22 to now, and I repeat it to you and I know I speak what is in your hearts—America means to play her part in a new relationship among the nations of the world."

"America does not object; she wants an association of nations. America wants to bring the world conscience to common understanding. America wants to turn the light of world opinion on probable controversies or causes of conflict. America wants to join the nations of the world in promoting and preserving peace."

"I have not prescribed the specific thing, because I have not yet come into authority. I do not pretend to subscribe the specific thing myself. A covenant is what brought the failure of the first attempt. I am not the sort of candidate who thinks he can run the world. I am going to need help in the United States."

SEIZE ROCHESTER LIQUOR.

Rochester, Oct. 28.—Federal prohibition enforcement agents raided seven Rochester liquor selling places today, arrested 12 proprietors and bartenders and confiscated liquor valued at more than $100,000. The men arrested were released on bail and will be arraigned tomorrow.

ATTELL WILL RETURN.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—Abe Attell, former pugilist, named in connection with the 1919 baseball scandal, will return to the United States voluntarily and give testimony, he said here tonight. "When I am ready," Attell said, "I will go back of my own free will and tell all I know."

HARDING DEFIES COX FOLLOWERS

Renews His Challenge to Democrats to Show Any Inconsistency or Change of Position

REITERATES STAND

Rejects Versailles League, But Favors an Association Founded on Principles of Justice

Akron, O., Oct. 28.—Renewing his challenge to Democratic leaders to show any inconsistency or change of position in his utterances on the league issue, Senator Harding declared in a speech here tonight that he had stood unflinchingly against accepting membership in the Versailles league, but in favor of an international association founded on principles of justice.

The Republican nominee also reiterated his faith in party government and asserted that he did not desire to be president unless a Republican congress also was elected to translate Republican promises into performance.

He made a special plea for a Republican senate, declaring the nation owed to the present senate a debt of gratitude that never could be paid. Charges of a senate "oligarchy" he pronounced as entirely false.

Explains Ratification Vote.

In stating his position on the league, Mr. Harding declared he had voted for ratification with reservations because that was the only way the senate could deal with the problem as it was presented by the President. He outlined the argument in favor of the reservation on mandates, withdrawal of Article X, and said that all the Republican qualifications had been designed "to limit our obligations," not to make them clearer.

The President's proposal for a mandate over Armenia, the candidate asserted, had shown in striking fashion the wisdom of the Republican reservations. He added that although the United States sympathized deeply with Armenia, it could not afford to send an army of 70,000 to 100,000 there after Great Britain and France had taken all the desirable territory bordering on Armenia, leaving to Uncle Sam the starving and oppressed people of Armenia.

Quoting from a British publication, which declared the United States was doing more than any other nation in the world rehabilitation, by its contributions to European relief, the nominee said:

"That is the soul of America. Talk about breaking the heart of the world. America is healing the heart of the world. But even if the heart breaking tragedy were true, I would break the heart of the world that would destroy the soul of American nationality."

"Oh," they say, "you cannot tell where Harding stands on the league." Well, let me see if I can tell you where I stand. I am at least entitled to speak for myself. I have been speaking since the 22nd of last July and I challenge any Democrat in America, high or low, to find a contradiction in anything I have said.

FIGHT WITH AUTHORITIES OVER BODY OF MACSWINEY

Hollywood, Wales, Oct. 28.—(By The Associated Press.)—Relatives of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney resisted when the authorities started to place the body of the lord mayor on board a boat bound for Cork. After a fight over the coffin, however, the body was taken aboard the vessel which sailed for Cork.

London, Oct. 28.—The government has refused to permit the body of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork to be landed in Dublin and has provided a special steamer to convey the remains to Cork.

The reason assigned by the government for not permitting the body to be landed anywhere except in the Lord Mayor's native city was "the risk of political demonstrations which might result in the loss of innocent lives."

PREDICTS VICTORY

All His Previous Predictions, the Governor Tells Indianapolis Voters, Have Come True

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 28.—Arguments addressed especially to voters favoring Senator Harding, Republican Presidential candidate, upon the broad general ground of desiring "a change" in national affairs, were emphasized here tonight by Governor Cox of Ohio, the Democratic nominee.

To a large audience in Tomlinson hall, and in a formal statement, Governor Cox fired a broadside of questions to the American people, attacking Senator Harding and other Republican leaders for their League of Nations, legislative and political records.

"Republicans, when they are honest," Governor Cox declared, "have acknowledged what is patent to everyone—that no one really wants Senator Harding for President and yet they tell me as partisans many expected to vote for him because they have been taught to believe that 'they wanted a change.' The expression was preached as propaganda by reactionary leaders until it has become nauseating to the public."

Governor Cox asked whether the voters desire a change back to normalcy relative to legislation, to "tax revision by big business," to "success of reactionary politicians," to "control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose," and to other conditions.

Governor Cox's visit here was the occasion for a great rally of hoosier democracy. A parade, with fireworks, torch lights and bands, was staged and the governor spoke to an overflow meeting outside of the hall. Hundreds of persons, including many clubs, marched in the parade.

The governor arrived at 5:30 tonight from Dayton, O., where he spent the day resting and where he issued a second statement attacking the Saturday Evening Post, renewing charges of unfair partisanship.

With his fire against the argument for "a change" in government, Governor Cox also preached the League of Nations and predicted a victory next Tuesday.

"When I started this campaign," said Governor Cox, "I made the prediction that we would drive our opponents out of the front trench, by mid-October. I have now visited 38 states. Not only has the prediction come true, but the retreat of the reactionary forces has become a rout. The American people clearly are for our going into the League. The lines are definitely set. My election means our going into the League. And notwithstanding the 'wiggling and wobbling' of Senator Harding, the voters have taken him at his word that he is against the League and that he has turned his back upon it."

"Every smoke screen set up by the 'senatorial oligarchy' has been pierced and every entanglement has been torn down. The specious attempt to build up a slogan for 'a change' is the last to fail."

"My opponents make their fight upon the League issue and upon me. They have failed in their attempt to divert the issues. They have been compelled to recognize that Cox is the candidate and no longer can they continue their assault upon President Wilson, whom they have piteously balanced for months, even though they knew he was sick and unable to defend himself—as much a victim of the war as any disabled soldier in the hospital."

SENSATIONAL DATA IN BUILDING SUIT

Witness Tells of Paying Labor Leaders $1,000 For Working Agreement Privilege

By The Associated Press)

New York, Oct. 28.—After another day of sensational testimony, the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust," late today took an adjournment until next Thursday morning, November 4.

Developments at today's hearing were:

Testimony by William Waixel, house wrecking contractor, that he paid $1,000 to Robert P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades council, for the privilege of a working agreement with the council. He said he also paid another $1,000 to Brindell for a house wrecking job.

Because he had refused "to produce $25,000" for Brindell, Jacob Fradus, a general contractor, testified that he had been bankrupted and put out of business by the labor leaders, to whom, he declared, he had paid $1,000 for a job.

Charles H. Wallas, house wrecking contractor, testified that his $400,000 annual business had dwindled down to $100 jobs because he had refused to hire "Brindell's men."

Testimony by Arthur Greenfield, president of the Employing Metallic, Furring and Lathing association, that the members of the association at a meeting last Monday destroyed papers that "might incriminate" them in this investigation, including the minutes of a meeting held April 26, at which price fixing is alleged to have been discussed.

Testimony that a group of metallic lathing contractors, bidding on school contracts for the city of New York had formed a combine to "get better prices" and stifle competitive bidding.

James G. Trainor, metal lath contractor, testified that the Employing Metallic, Furring and Lathing association had hired and paid Mr. Murphy, president of the Lathers' union, a salary of $55 a week, but didn't know "what he was expected to do."

FRANCE CONSIDERS ELECTION RUMORS

Reported Withdrawal of Ambassador in Event of Change in Administration Denied

Paris, Oct. 28.—The foreign office today took cognizance of reports circulated in the United States as to alleged plans of the French government following the American election, and issued the following official statement:

"Certain American publications in the last few days have printed reports according to which the French government's intention was to recall its ambassadors in event of and as soon as a Republican president assumed office. The new envoy, it was reported, would have instructions to meet the Republican viewpoint concerning the League of Nations and also try to reach an alliance of some kind between the United States and France."

"A new association of nations was alleged to be the policy of the new ambassador in which the two great republics would play predominant parts. Such information is absolutely groundless. Ambassador Jusserand leaves on November 15 to resume the duties of his post at Washington."

The reports to which the French foreign office issues the foregoing official denial were not circulated by The Associated Press, but were contained in a dispatch circulated through other channels.

GARFIELD LAUDS ROOSEVELT.

Rochester, Oct. 28.—That Roosevelt established the ascendancy of the public rights over the rights of capital and that President Wilson established the ascendancy of the public rights over labor, was the belief expressed by former Federal Fuel Administrator Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, in an address at a Roosevelt commemoration luncheon here yesterday.

MCCRAW INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

Violation of Volstead Act in Connection With Lambs' Club
Fracas, Is Alleged

New York, Oct. 28.—John J. McCraw, manager of the New York Giants, today was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

The indictment was procured on evidence presented by Assistant Federal District Attorney Frederick H. Reynolds, who investigated the fracas at the Lambs' club last August between McCraw and John C. Slavin, a musical comedy actor. The indictment charges that on that date McCraw had illegal possession of a bottle of whiskey. The maximum penalty for such an offense is a $500 fine. The grand jury action, it was learned, resulted from statements attributed to McCraw in press reports during investigation of the Lambs' club fracas. In these he was quoted as saying he had bought two bottles of whiskey at the club shortly before the trouble.

BUTTONS FROM OUR RIVERS

Pearl Mussel Fisheries Are a Flourishing and Very Interesting Industry.

It should be remembered that in addition to their food value fishes are necessary in our rivers if we are to perpetuate the pearl button industry of the country, which employs some twenty thousand people and yields a product valued at more than $5,000,000.

When the young mussels, which are of microscopic size, are "thrown off" from the brood pouches of their parents at the proper season, the larval mussels slowly drift to the bottom and perish in a few days' time unless they come in contact with a passing fish of suitable kind and succeed in making attachment. Once this attachment is made, the tissue of the fish grows over the little mussel, until it has undergone a remarkable change of form and structure; then it dips from the fish to commence its independent life at the bottom of the stream or lake.

It is a further fact that the young of particular kinds of mussels require the gills of particular kinds of fishes as nurseries. The black bass is host for several sorts of mussels, while the kipjack, a kind of herring, is the only known host for the best of all mussels.
As this last mentioned fish is far from being abundant in American rivers, it is plain that much care should be exercised in its maintenance.

The mussel fishery that supplies the fresh water pearl button industry is actively conducted in at least twenty states in the Mississippi river basin.
The raw production of shells now has a value of about $1,000,000. The fresh water pearl button is now recognized as among the cheapest durable buttons that can be procured. The mussel beds have been rapidly depleted, chiefly because the fishermen in past years would retain only the very best shells and discard as culls all shells that were of an inferior grade.

Necessary action in the way of government legislation to protect the mussel fisheries has been so long delayed that this unique and rather important industry is now sure to experience considerable difficulty in perpetuating itself.—Floyd W. Parsons, in the Saturday Evening Post.

True Friendship.

Two are friends who have learned to interpret aright the silences that fall between them. They know that the understanding is complete and that words are unnecessary to an explanation. It is a relief when one may without reservation trust and be trusted, though nothing is said. We might, indeed, learn from our humble dependent dog a valuable lesson of implicit faith that does not need the medium of writing or of speech.

Language of Animal Pets.

The animal pets we make and learn to love do not talk to us—in words—and they use no language that we recognize with one another. "The dumb brutes," we sometimes call them. Yet when your dog stands at your knee and looks up at you, how eloquent are his eyes! His friendship proclaims itself in a speaking silence; his whole attitude is eloquent of his fondness and his loyalty.—Exchange.

CZECH WITH A SCOTCH NAME

served From Rob Roy's Clansmen.

If Harry Laidler were to read that a MacGregor was one of the leaders of Czechoslovakian thought in America he would doubtless conclude that the printer man had pied the type. Just the same it's a fact that the pseudonym of
B. C. Gregr, editor of the New York Bohemian daily, is nothing less than a Czech-Slovak remnant of MacGregor.

And the answer is that one of the editor's liveliest ancestors was an adventurous Scot of the great Rob Roy's clan who found his way to Bohemia and stayed there.

The real Bohemia of New York, quite unknown to the pallid Bohemians who criticize life from the elevation of a Greenwich village table d'hôte, lies in the Seventies, between Second avenue and the East river. Since the war its inhabitants call themselves Czechoslovakians.

Editor Gregr, whose forefathers forgot to hand him down a Scotch accent, and who wouldn't know how to say
"Hoot, mon!" either in Scotch or Czechoslovak, is a son of a renowned Bohemian patriot who served for 50 years as a parliamentary representative of his people in the legislature of their Austro-Hungarian oppressor.
The editor himself is a profound student of international affairs and is doomed upon as a sage by the 700,000
Czechoslovakians in America.—New

The Profiteer.

President Taft's visit to Western university was condemning the profiteer.

"I know a college professor," he said, "who was disturbed at his frugal supper one night by a suspicious noise in the cellar."

"The professor put down his porridge spoon and stole down the cellar stairs. Suddenly an electric torch was flashed on him, and the shadowy

"It's all right, professor. It's only me."

"Me?" the professor muttered.
"Sure—me—the provision man, ye know, leavin' yer week's provisions."

"Thereupon the professor gave a great start, and held his hands up higher still."

New York, Oct. 28. — Selling for exchange today, the reversal encompassing every important division of the list.

The reaction was accompanied by the largest transactions since the ear-

Money rates were unchanged, the bulk of the day's call loans being made on a 9 per cent basis, rising to 10 per cent in the final hour, when a sum approximating $20,000,000 was in demand. Most of the day's funds came from out of town sources, the same interests also making moderate time loans.

The one hopeful incident of the day
—settlement of the British coal strike, was utterly ignored.

Oils, steels, equipments, shippings, motors and numerous allied specialties, more or less as named, bore the brunt of the break, but rails were relatively steady, a brisk advance in Southern Pacific being the final fea-

Hartwick, Oct. 28. — Btta, wife of Grant Raynor, residing on a farm a short distance above this village, died at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, after only a few weeks' illness. The direct cause of death was a mental shock which she suffered a short time ago, when their farm house and barns were burned. Up to that time she had been in usual health, but since then had gradually failed until the end came on Wednesday. The body will be taken to Seneca, Cayuga county, where the funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday at 3 p. m., Rev. Mr. Beach officiating.

NOT A DEAD ISSUE.

Prohibition Still Vital Question. Otsego Meeting Is Told.

Otsego, Oct. 28. — A non-partisan political rally for the purpose of presenting prohibition as one of the leading issues of the present political campaign was held in the opera house on Tuesday evening with a goodly number of citizens in attendance.

J. C. Hyatt, the chairman of the meeting, explained that the call of the meeting was the result of a desire on the part of the personal workers to bring this issue to the attention of the citizens of Otsego.

Rev. C. C. Voiz spoke, emphasizing the need of Christian leadership in the administration of the affairs of the state and nation, and calling upon American womanhood to be loyal to its franchise privilege.

The principal speaker of the evening was Rev. W. M. Bouton of Syracuse, who forcefully presented the reasons why prohibition was not a dead issue but a very live one.

He urged the necessity of supporting the constitution of the United States, of which the Eighteenth amendment is now a part, by voting for candidates, regardless of party affiliation.

Women voters who know how to vote should be present and assist in familiarizing the more timid ones with the method of voting.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Sedan, with electric self-starting and lighting system and demountable rims with 31½-inch tires, front and rear, for every day in the year, has no equal as a family car. Just as popular on the farm as it is in the city. In fact, it fits the family demands in every vocation of life. Large, roomy seats, finely upholstered, plate glass windows make it an open car in pleasant weather, while in rainy and inclement weather it becomes a closed car, dust-proof and rain-proof. It is not only comfortable, but really cozy, and above all, economical in operation and maintenance, and has all the Ford merits of strength and durability.

FRUITS OUT OF SEASON.

It is a singular fact that while we have more money now in our pockets than ever before, we are not getting any more food. Except in a few places, the road birds will not be considered for several months.

In the first place the cost per mile of reinforced concrete roads has nearly doubled, and there are very few contractors who are willing to tackle the job at any price on account of the uncertainty of labor and materials.

"It behooves us, therefore," says Mr. Frank Baschke, V. P. American Steel & Wire Co., that we make some definite plan to keep such roads as we have, in as good repair as possible. It has been suggested in various places that in addition to the paid patrolman, each stretch of road under consideration should have a road committee to be morally responsible for the improvement and condition of that section, and in order to make public the names of those responsible, a signboard has been suggested which will have the number of the section, the name of the patrolman and the names of the chairman and local road committee.

"The result of this undoubtedly would be that a great deal of road which is now neglected, would receive the closest attention, partly through pride, but mostly through the strength of public opinion.

"Roads which are properly drained and dragged after every rain, with a little gravel added in the chucks, will remain in good condition for most all of the year.

"I have heard also that in Kansas there are road dragging clubs which make a practice of dragging the snow off of the surface so that in melting it does not ruin the road. Such roads are dried weeks in advance of other roads not so handled."

One result of the continued warm weather has been the production of many berries and fruits out of season. Early in the present month the bringing to market of an occasional basket of red raspberries seemed notable enough to be worthy of newspaper comment. But when not single baskets but full crates of them were offered at the out-door market on Marshall street, some of them as late as Tuesday of this week, and with prospects of still more on later days, it ceased to be wondered at, and raspberry shortcakes became a more or less common October event. Of course some of these berries were from the late-introduced late-bearing varieties, but even these have surpassed themselves, and not a few berries have come from bushes not cultivated.

But, though most numerous, the fruitful evidences of a wonderful season have not been confined to raspberries. Tomatoes, which in other years would have seemed of such late start that there was no hope for them, have continued to grow and have ripened, so that even yet they are to a limited extent in market, and there was green corn and summer squash on sale in the city this week. Blackberries, even, and the black-cap raspberries have to a more limited extent been on exhibition, and so have strawberries, of which at least one family boasts of enough for a shortcake from plants set out last spring and which ordinarily would first have fruited in 1921; and as for flowers who have even seen such abundance of asters, and cosmos, even if they are naturally late-flowering, while it is the record of more than one newspaper exchange that the last rose of summer has not blossomed alone until very recently it is at all, and that there are still sweet peas frugally to be gathered in many a garden.

MOUNTAIN MOONSHINE.

Thirsty Stamford Man Sets up Still on Oneonta's Unoccupied Farm.

George J. Clute of 121 Spruce street returned yesterday from Stamford, bringing with him a story that sounded much like the novels one reads of "mountain moonshine" in the hills of Kentucky.

It seems that last Sunday night a well-known Stamford character was noticed staggering about the streets in a decidedly inebriated condition, and other men of the village immediately began to wonder "where he got it." They followed him to an abandoned farm outside the village, where he entered a rustic shed behind the house and disappeared from sight. Later, the men entered the shed and found a good-sized still in operation with several gallons of the "finched product" in containers about the shed. The farm is the property of Mr. Clute but has not been occupied for several months past. Although the house had been locked, the shed was left open, and the thirsty Stamford man evidently thought that it was an ideal spot for making booze.

Mr. Clute heard reports of the "boozings on" at his place last week, so he went out for a personal investigation yesterday. He found that the miniature distillery on the abandoned farm had ceased operation, but reports were to the effect that the man had started up at another place. It was not thought that he made the liquor for the purpose of trading in it, but simply to have some of it being unable to change his tendencies after partying had worn its effect.

Maintenance of Dirt Roads

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

It is a singular fact that while we have more money now in our pockets than ever before, we are not getting any more food. Except in a few places, the road birds will not be considered for several months.

In the first place the cost per mile of reinforced concrete roads has nearly doubled, and there are very few contractors who are willing to tackle the job at any price on account of the uncertainty of labor and materials.

"It behooves us, therefore," says Mr. Frank Baschke, V. P. American Steel & Wire Co., that we make some definite plan to keep such roads as we have, in as good repair as possible. It has been suggested in various places that in addition to the paid patrolman, each stretch of road under consideration should have a road committee to be morally responsible for the improvement and

GOOD WORK ON THE D. & H.

Officers and Employees Cooperate to Secure Best Utilization of Equipment.

Industries and shippers generally are to be commended for their close cooperation with the railroads to secure the greatest possible utilization of equipment.

While at times during the past two or three years industry and agriculture have suffered from extreme car shortage, this shortage would have been much more acute had not the shippers themselves directed their energies toward heavier loading of freight cars, thus increasing the available car supply.

The American Railway association has just released its statistics showing the percentage of utilization of weight capacity of freight cars loaded during May, 1920, as compared with the utilization secured during May, 1919. Their statement covers thirty principal commodities loaded on the different railroads and most of the lines report increases in the average load. Of the 155 lines reporting for the month of May, 1920, 112 show a substantial increase in the average load of less carload freight loaded at stations and industries. Industrial and wholesale concerns as a rule have been in full sympathy with the so-called "Shipping Day" plan and have put forth honest endeavors to so classify and offer their shipments that not only the heaviest possible loading would obtain, but that such cars might run the greatest possible distance without breaking bulk.

L. P. Loree, president of the D. & H., was one of the pioneers in the advocacy of heavier loading. Years ago he fully recognized that it would soon be impossible to meet the shipping requirements of this country unless heavier loading was resorted to, and that plan carried out to its fullest extent. His ideas on this subject were soon caught by others and the campaign for the more intensive use of railroad equipment became general.

Over 21,000 cars of anthracite coal were loaded by shippers in D. & H. territory during May, 1920. The average carload was utilized 96.32 per cent of its load limit. Other lines report loading 59,429 cars of the same commodity during the same month of an average of 77.59 per cent.

A few other commodities loaded at D. & H. point during the same month show increased utilization: Sand, 8.24 per cent; cement, 2.92 per cent; leather, 17.61 per cent and fur 5.21 per cent.

Marriage Is Failure Among Screen

Stars With Idealism At Fault Says

Bachelor Brother of 3 Ex-Hubbies

Matt Moore, Who Has Been Brother-in-Law of Mary Pickford, Alice Joyce and Grace Cunard, Reveals Reasons Why His Brothers No Longer Hold Star Parts as Husbands

ANNOUNCEMENT of the divorce of Mary Pickford, the divorce and remarriage of Alice Joyce, troubles between Charlie Chaplin and his wife, Mildred Harris Chaplin, recollections of the divorce of Douglas Fairbanks, and other stories of matrimonial difficulties affecting the stars, married outside the profession and not due to any individual shortcomings, have become ideal husbands and wives. In the profession, however, the chances for happiness are small, for the simple reason that the attraction usually comes through the acting of the individual and therefore it is a false attraction.

"It may sound queer," said Mr. Moore, "but I really haven't a word of censure for any one of my brothers-in-law. That they could not continue to be happy is the fault of the profession and not due to any individual shortcomings. Actresses and actors have unusual difficulties affecting the stars, married outside the profession and not due to any individual shortcomings, have become ideal husbands and wives. In the profession, however, the chances for happiness are small, for the simple reason that the attraction usually comes through the acting of the individual and therefore it is a false attraction.

Mothers who have won for themselves an enviable place on the screen, offers the theory that rather than harness it is too high idealism that causes the failures of marriages among the actors and actresses of the screen. While Matt Moore has never married he has been in a good position to observe the things which lead to separation for all of his three brothers who have been married to screen stars and each one of them is once more a bachelor due to the divorce courts. Owen Moore was the husband of Alice Joyce and Joe Moore was the husband of Grace Cunard.

"Don't Ever Marry" His Advice.

Matt Moore advanced his theory in discussing the latest production in which he appears under the direction of Marshall Neilan. "Don't Ever Marry," which will be the attraction at the Oneonta theatre at an early date and naturally the talk turned to the unsuccessful marriages of his brothers.

LOCAL MENTION

The Lutheran Sunday school will hold a Halloween masquerade party in the church parlors this evening. A cordial invitation is extended to friends of the church. No admission will be charged.

Today is the last day on which the present three-cent-a-mile passenger rate will be operative on the Ulster and Delaware railway. Beginning Saturday morning five cents per mile will be charged.

Tomorrow will be the next market day. The place is Market street, near Main, and the hours 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. As the market will probably be continued only a short time longer, citizens should take advantage of the opportunities offered.

The new 20-minute schedule for the city line of the trolley company, which it was hoped to have in operation yesterday, is not yet entirely completed. It will, therefore, not take effect before Saturday, and possibly not until the first of November.

With Halloween near at hand, the store windows along Main street have taken on a gay color, and at night illuminated jack-o'-lanterns are much in evidence. There are several attractive exhibits, with autumn foliage, game and fruit taking prominent parts.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Huff of Buffalo and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boswell of Birmingham, who took part in the "Women of Mooseheart" Legion institute last May, will be present at the masquerade social to be held by the legion at the club rooms this evening. The women plan to make the meeting one of the most enjoyable yet held.

From a glance at the local columns of this morning's Star, it would seem that tonight will be generally observed in Oneonta as Halloween, there being numerous masquerade parties. As Halloween falls on Sunday this year, some celebrators are taking their choice of either Friday, Saturday or Monday night.

Meetings Today.
The Ladies' Aid of the United Presbyterian church will meet at the church at 2:30. All come prepared to sew.

All members of the Woman's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. are requested to meet at the church at 2:30. Report of the nominating committee for officers for the ensuing year will be given and there are other matters of business to be disposed of.

The Loyal Helpers of the Main Street Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Standbridge, 31 Grand street, this afternoon.

Woman's Club.
The Shakespeare class will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, reading the first act of Othello.

BIG DEMOCRAT RALLY

District, State and National Issues Discussed Last Evening

PLEA FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Large Audience Listens to Speeches by Distinguished Party Orators—Wilson and His Opponents—Principal Address by Representative W. S. Goodwin of Arkansas.

The largest political gathering of the season thus far in Oneonta was held last evening at the Oneonta theatre, where for two and a half hours citizens of the city and county, among them many women, listened with attention to addresses delivered by leading Democratic speakers on the issues and the candidates of the campaign. Prior to the speeches, the City band gave several selections upon Chestnut street and in the theatre itself.

The meeting was called to order at about 8:15 o'clock by Hon. Chester A. Miller of Oneonta, who introduced as the first speaker Cortland A. Wilber of Birmingham, law partner of Lieut. Governor Walker, who spoke in behalf of the latter, who is the party candidate for United States senator. Mr. Wilber voiced the regret of Lieut. Governor Walker over his unavoidable absence and brought his greetings to his numerous friends, closing with an appeal for his support to a position which in the policy of our government stands next in importance to that of the president himself.

Major Charles R. Seymour, candidate for congress, spoke briefly on his own candidacy, referring to his services in the war and stating that he changed his political affiliations after returning to America because he believed that the Democratic party best represented the policies of peace and progress. If elected his single purpose would be to represent the people and to put nothing before the welfare of his country.

The third speaker was William E. Fitzsimmons of Albany, who is a legal representative in that city of the B. of L. E. and E. His address had in the main to do with the affairs of the state. He spoke for about half an hour, opening in humorous vein which caught the attention of his audience, and following with a summary of what he held to have been the outstanding achievements of Governor Smith. Beginning with the assertion that as a result of his observation it did not seem to him that the Democracy could possibly lose, he characterized the governor as a plain man who fights honorably and energetically for the welfare of the state, and he commended him to the consideration of the railroad men as a fighter against reactionaries. Among the matters for which the governor was commended were his public welfare program, including workmen's compensation, health insurance, minimum hours for women in industry, better pay for women and children, the housing law, the Farms and Market bureau, plans for industrial training and Sunday baseball.

The last speaker was Representative William S. Goodwin of Arkansas, whose address, after brief complimentary reference to local candidates and state conditions, had to do chiefly with the national campaign and the League of Nations. Mr. Goodwin has for the past seven years been congressman from his state and he has all the traditional eloquence of the south. Beginning with the statement that the present is an age of service, and that their day should pass rapidly for those whose service is for anybody but the public, he continued with an eulogy of President Wilson, whom he characterized as giving alike his strength and possibly his life in the cause of truth and justice. Extracts from speeches by Harding made relative to Roosevelt in the second Taft campaign followed, and he quoted and affirmed a statement of Bryan that Wilson had put on the statute book more remedial laws than had been passed from Washington to Wilson himself.

In the list were included a better financial system, and the commercial merchant marine, but chiefly his remarks were an explanation and defense of the League of Nations. We should not, he said, become detached, segregated; we should not build up a wall between ourselves and the world. Rather, we should unite in a concert of powers which would have power sufficient to enforce justice. He compared the powers given by Article X, most discussed of the features of the treaty, to those of a jury, which after its decision has been made should have behind it the power of enforcement. Article X should not be changed, he said, because it is the tech of the treaty.

To Wilson himself he paid tribute as a leader with rare force and vision, not an autocrat in the usual sense of the term but if there were necessary a benevolent one to force inert bodies into action. The President had in the treaty no intention to take from our country its self-governing power. Harding he arraigned as being in his view "all things to all men" and asked if his hearers would desire to vote for such a man.

Following with a brief comparison of Cox and Smith, he denominated Wilson spokesman of the world at the Versailles conference and closed with a few remarks expressing his confidence in the great silent vote, and asking the support in this crisis of the women of America.

Y' BOYS TO MAKE MERRY.

Will Hold Halloween Masquerade Social Tomorrow Evening.

The newly-organized boys' club of the Y. M. C. A. formally got under way Wednesday evening, when the officers of the club were announced and plans for the winter's activities discussed. Despite the rainy weather, about 30 boys turned out at the meeting and evidenced a great deal of interest in the club.

Jack Miller was chosen president of the club and its governing council, Morton Shepard vice president, Harold Disbrow secretary and Charles Beams treasurer. The club has self-government, being presided over by a council made up of ten boys. Associate Secretary Smith will be in attendance at the meetings, however, and will foster the club life.

The following committee chairmen were appointed by the president to serve until January 1: Devotional, Stewart Pratt; membership, Bruce VanBuren; music, Gerald Lee; house, Robert Beisel; entertainment, Charles Beams; service, Peter Molinari; advertising, Gerald Lee.

The club will meet on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings of each month for a social time and for the transaction of any business that may require attention. Each member will pay five cents in dues at every meeting, and the money thus raised will be used entirely for the boys' work. The council will meet every Wednesday noon for luncheon at the "Y" to arrange for the meetings of the club and to discuss plans for making the club attractive to the boys.

The first "big time" of the club will take place on Saturday evening, when the boys will have a Halloween masquerade party, commencing at 7:30 o'clock. The feature of the evening will be a play entitled, "That Old Jaw Done," which probably will be as touching as it sounds. All the boys are looking forward to a good time.

Masquerade Social Tonight.

The members of the G. I. A. to the B. of L. E. and their husbands will hold a masquerade social at the home of Sister Walters this evening. Bring usual refreshments.

LAST REPUBLICAN RALLY.

Prominent Speakers to Be Present Tonight—Everybody Urged to Attend.

The last Republican rally of the season, quite probably the last political meeting of any sort in Oneonta, will be held this evening at the Oneonta theatre. The principal speaker will be Hon. William L. Swope of Pennsylvania, who is United States district attorney for that state. His address will be largely on the important national issues, including the League of Nations; and his address will be a clear presentation of these issues from a Republican standpoint. Music will be furnished by the City band, and it is intended to make the meeting the big Republican event of the campaign in Oneonta county. In addition to residents of this city, it is expected that many will be in attendance from other parts of this county and from Delaware.

In addition to Mr. Swope it is expected that other well-known state and local speakers will be present and address the meeting.

Baptist Convention Closes Today.
The Baptist Missionary convention of the state of New York, in session at Cortland this week, draws to a close today, following which the Oneonta pastors who are in attendance will return to their home to occupy their pulpits here Sunday morning. About 819 delegates are in attendance at the sessions of the convention, and they have been addressed by prominent Baptist clergymen from all sections of the state, and William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. The convention sermon was delivered Wednesday evening by Rev. J. C. Mueser, pastor of the Baptist temple, Brooklyn. Of interest locally is the fact that Dean J. F. Vickers, of the theological seminary at Hamilton college, delivered an address on "The Minister as a Preacher" at the Tuesday afternoon session. Dr. Vickers was in Oneonta to occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in the absence of Dr. Russell.

The convention will come to a close today, with the election of officers and the selection of next year's convention city.

All departed at a late hour, after a good time with an ideal host and hostess.

MISS DOLLY T. MAXWELL

Dies at Home of Sister, Mrs. W. A. Noble, 7 Morgan Avenue.

Miss Dolly T. Maxwell, who has been a resident of Oneonta for the past 16 years, making her home with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Noble, of 7 Morgan avenue, died yesterday afternoon at about 3:30 o'clock at the Noble home. Miss Maxwell had been in failing health for several months past, owing to the infirmities of age, but her passing yesterday came as a distinct shock to the family, she having been about the house as usual until 1 p. m. and not appearing to be seriously ill.

Miss Maxwell was born in the town of Granton, Delaware county, on November 26, 1833, a daughter of Silas G. and Polly P. (Carpenter) Maxwell, and her home was at this farm almost continuously until she came to Oneonta, she living with her sister after her parents had died. In early life, she suffered a severe illness that left her partially crippled, but despite this handicap she maintained her sunny disposition and helping ways all through her long life. She and her sister, Mrs. Noble, were inseparable and Miss Maxwell was always looked on as a member of the Noble household. Until prevented by poor health, Miss Maxwell attended the Presbyterian church.

Miss Maxwell is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Noble and Mrs. George Benedict of Delhi, and one brother, A. O. Maxwell of Delhi. Mrs. Charles Williams of 2 Brook street, W. Clinton, Noble of 273 Chestnut street, and George A. Noble and Miss Thera M. Noble of 7 Morgan avenue, this city, are nieces and nephews of the deceased.

The funeral services for Miss Maxwell, which will be private, will be held at the Noble home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial probably in the Plains cemetery.

TRADE AVENUES

TO BE REVISED

Changes in Near East Will Benefit Manufacturers in America and Western Europe.

WILL CUT OUT MIDDLEMEN

Must Inevitably Be Greater Proportion of Shipping Direct to Black Sea Ports Than Existed Before the War.

Constantinople.—Owing to the general revision of boundaries of nations in the Balkans and other parts of the Levant, it is expected that trade avenues between the Near East and western Europe and the Americas will be revised in a manner that will benefit the western nations that stand ready to meet the new conditions.

In the opinion of most experts familiar with the commercial conditions in the Levant there must inevitably be a greater proportion of shipping direct from points of production to Black Sea ports than has existed during the war.

Will Aid Manufacturers.

In other words, manufacturers will get into direct touch with merchants in big distribution centers and eliminate the middlemen and the transportation in Constantinople to a considerable extent. The limited and unsatisfactory docking facilities in Constantinople and the prices demanded by the lighterage trust and shipping agents dominated by various European governments are regarded as making this imperative.

Admiral Mark Bristol, the American high commissioner, recently visited Bulgaria, and is much impressed by the thrift and industry of the Bulgarians and the skillful way in which they have cultivated their land in an effort to throw off the bad effects of the war. He believes that Varna and Bourgas are destined to become much more important because of the intelligence and industry of the Bulgarians.

Odesa, in the opinion of many students of Black Sea commerce, will never again be as important relatively as it was before the war. It is believed that the business of Sebastopol, Theodosia and other Crimean ports is comparatively small. Novorossiysk, the grain-shipping center for the rich farming districts owned by the Cosaks, has equipment for shipping petroleum in tanks and is an export center for zinc ore, potash, oilcake and many other products.

Georgian Ports to Gain.

Poti and Batumi, the two Georgian ports, afford an entrance to Persia and the entire trans-Caspian area and are looked upon as centers which will eventually assume great importance because of their unlimited petroleum supply piped in from Baku. These two ports supply a population of about 5,000,000.

Before the war Poti was exporting between 500,000 and 600,000 tons of manganese annually from the inexhaustible deposits near Kutais. Most of this went to Germany, although the United States and England took small quantities. In 1913 the United States received 125,796 tons of the Georgian manganese. These ports also ship much Circassian walnut and licorice root. The ore, coal and oil ports are the centers to which American shipping will more naturally turn for return cargoes.

SAYS DRUGS PERIL DRY CITIES

San Francisco Police Chief Orders Raids Which Result in Arrest of Twenty Men and Women.

San Francisco.—Sixteen men and four women were arrested here and several thousand dollars' worth of narcotics were seized in a campaign directed against the drug-users and peddlers by special order of Chief of Police D. A. White.

He said the action resulted from the fact that the use of narcotics here had reached an alarming stage.

The drug habit is spreading like wildfire in San Francisco, and I suspect in other cities as well, Chief White said. "Since prohibition has become more or less ineffective, the consequences of the drug habit stand out more prominently."

"In the last six months the traffic in this city has become a menace."

Wears Fifty-Year Old Suit.

Lawrenceburg, Ind.—The high cost of clothing is not worrying Robert E. Carver, sixty-six, a retired tobacco grower, living near here. Mr. Carver is wearing a suit 50 years old, and it still gives indication of lasting some time to come. The suit originally was made for Mr. Carver's father, being a home-spun garment. The cost is of the style of 1870, a long frock, and the trousers have large legs.

Live in Same House 58 Years.

Memphis, Tenn.—With more than 1,000 families moving this week and the biggest moving concern just across the street, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Glazich of No. 162 Jefferson street are content where they are, even if it is now downtown. They have lived in the one house 58 years.

Citrus Powders.

Announcement is made of the discovery of a successful process for reducing orange juice and lemon juice to dry powders, the method adopted being much like that employed for the production of powdered milk. Dry air, at not too high a temperature, evaporates the juices to dryness, thus preserving the fresh flavor. When wanted for use, it is necessary merely to add water.

30TH PARTIES IN GOOD LUCK

Passengers in Auto and Motorcycles
"Puzzled" After Went on Their Way Rejoicing.

An unusual party was witnessed last night on the road to Oneonta. A party of 30 persons were motoring to Revere's and on the road this side of Oneonta there suddenly appeared a black and white patch. The machine approached the spot at a fast rate and as it drew nearer the mess straightened out into a line across the road. There was a group of automobiles and of motorcycles, for the black-and-white mess proved to be a motor skunk leading four little ones across the street. They were moving very slowly, so slowly indeed that it was impossible to stop the car before it reached them.

Admonitions of "Don't hit them" were not necessary to the driver of the machine, but he was wondering how he was going to miss them. As luck would have it, the mother skunk just then separated herself from the four little ones and the machine passed right over her without harming a hair of the odorous animal.

The passengers, looking back, saw the mother skunk off at a gallop and were watching it across the highway and over the railway tracks into the friendly bushes. They were right in the path of an approaching trolley car, but negotiated the retreat without a casualty. Probably the unburned but dazed mother rejoined her little flock later. Had the auto and the skunks met in collision it must have cast a gloom over subsequent proceedings for the car and its cargo.—Brooklyn Enterprise.

HOW TO OVERCOME

That Awful Reaction Caused by Influenza

Influenza, Grippe, or any severe sickness leaves the blood poor, thin and dehydrated, and the system weak, run-down and in nervous condition. The one great remedy to create strength after sickness is Vinol, because it contains the tissue-building elements of fresh cod liver, aided by the blood, strength and vitality making elements of tonic iron, beef pancreas and glycerophosphates. It creates a hearty appetite, aids digestion, quickens the circulation, and every nerve organ and member of the body is soon filled with new strength, energy and vitality. There are many people in this city who will tell you from personal experience what Vinol has done for them.

TOO MUCH UNISON

Writer Complains Americans Are Unable to Act Alone.

"Mob-Minded" Is Expression He Uses —People as a Whole as Easy to Stampede as a Herd of Texas Steers

The only way to accomplish the laudable purpose of bringing down the price of clothing would be to start the fashion of being out of fashion and that would be the hardest kind of a lesson to teach the American people. They have learned to act as one—which is a good thing sometimes. They have yet to learn how to act as ones—which is a good thing most of the time.

We are mob-minded and that is the cause of many of our troubles, including the high cost of living. Everybody wants to read the same novel the same week. Consequently the library cannot supply its readers, while equally good novels, a few months old, are stacked up unread on the shelves. There is a worldwide shortage of wheat. "Use other grains," says Hoover. Everybody does for a while, then after a while everybody goes back to wheat and the supply again runs short. All the housewives order the best cuts of meat, but cattle can't be grown that are all best cuts. The department of agriculture advises some other cut and then every housewife orders that and will accept no substitute.

Someone suggests that a few young men and women might learn Spanish to their advantage and immediately 10,000 in a single city start Spanish and there are not teachers and textbooks enough to go around. If an excursion boat tips and the captain calls out, "Too many on one side," the crowd unanimously rushes to the opposite side and the boat lists more than ever. A millionaire, asked for his recipe for riches, said: "Go where everybody is doing the same thing and do something different." He had got his money out of the Klondike by selling groceries.

We declared our independence as a nation, but we have not yet declared our independence as individuals. We do everything in mass movements, by campaigns, drives, booms, crazes, fads and revivals. We cannot even fulfill the simplest civic or family duties without calling on all our fellow citizens to aid. It is only by the proclamation of a "Go to Church Sunday," that we are enabled to make a batting average in religion of one hit out of a possible 52. The rest of the calendar is filled up with "Write to Mother Day," "Clean-Up Day," "Plant a Tree Day," "Be Patriotic Day," "Be Thankful Day," and the like. "All together now," cries our gubernatorial or presidential cheer leader, "one, two, three, let'er go!" And we all go through the motions of the designated emotions with the precision of a rhythm machine.

"The strongest man in the world," says Ibsen, "is he who stands most alone." That is, I suppose, his way of saying that nobody but a strong man could stand alone in a democracy like ours.

The American people is as easy to stampede as a herd of Texas steers and any one who tries to stand against the rush gets trampled into the ground. —Edwin E. Slosson in the New York Independent.

Powerful Wireless Station.

The greatest wireless station in the world is soon to rise near New York city. It is known as a five-way station. In other words, it will transmit and receive long-distance wireless messages in five directions at the same time. The great masts which raise the antennae to the skies will be 650 feet in height or 100 feet higher than the Washington monument. Messages will be transmitted at once to England and central Europe, to South America and south seas and to the Pacific coast and Japan. The station will be capable of sending 500 words and receiving 500 words every minute. Messages may be sent from the great station for 10,000 miles. The power of the sending apparatus will be so great that the radio messages will penetrate the most densest weather and static conditions for thousands of miles. It is estimated that the cost of building such a station will be only about one-tenth as much as to lay cables under the Atlantic or Pacific oceans.—Rov's Life.

FEWER GOLDEN WEDDINGS

Late Marriages and the Divorce Courts Reduce the Number of These Anniversaries.

More and more infrequently with the succeeding years do we read of the observance of the golden wedding anniversary. Memory recalls the time when such celebrations were of frequent occurrence; when the sons and daughters, grandchildren and often great-grandchildren gathered to honor and felicitate those who had shared the joys and sorrows of two-score-two years and in whose hearts' blessing upon them as they continued to hand the journey toward life's sunset.

This infrequency may be due in a measure to the present custom of marrying at a later age than was the rule several generations ago and to the fact that we of the present seem to fall rather under the head of the grim reaper than did our surlier ancestors. But to the divorce evil may be accredited the greater part of the blame. The present-day marriage is too often hastily contracted, the parties thereto fail to weigh carefully the responsibilities of married life, and the most trivial differences sometimes lead to separation. The number of couples who live to round out fifty years of matrimonial companionship becomes ever smaller and smaller.

Somewhat Ambiguous.

Among the local items that appeared in a country paper was this: "Paul McManus met with a painful accident last week. A fishhook became entangled in his eye. Paul is being attended by Doctor Evers, who says his eye will come out all right."

SAYS CHEMIST IS PUBLIC BENEFACTOR

"Being a doctor, and suffering for many years with stomach trouble, I feel I cannot do justice to so great a public benefactor in writing. My wonderful remedy is everything you have claimed for it. I can now eat and relish victuals I have not dared to eat in many years. I feel like newly born." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will continue you or money refunded. Miller-Strong Drug company.
